It is informally ascertained from the Insurance office that the general question of extending the State Life Insurance to the public of Guyana is under consideration of the Economic Committee.

SUBJECT No. 130.

Extension of the benefits of State Life Insurance to patels and shanbhogs.

M. Venkataramaniah, Nagamangala taluk.

Summary of discussion.—Government servants are made to insure their lives and thereby provision is made for their livelihood after their retirement. Similar privileges should be given to patels and shanbhogs.

It was stated by some members that as they had more confidence in Government they preferred State insurance to insurance with a private company.

The entire Assembly was in favour of the Government Insurance Scheme being extended to the public generally.

Reply of Government.—Under consideration.
